Daniel Versman

Guitar, Piano, Theory,
Songwriting & Composition,
Audio Engineering & Recording

After touring the U.S., Dan operated a recording studio in his hometown of Santa Cruz.

Dan began teaching music in 2010. He tailors his lesson plans to individual student goals and believes that curiosity and creativity should drive a student's education. He teaches a wide variety of genres; Folk, Rock, Classical, Indie, Blues, Country and Pop. Dan gives lessons to musicians at all levels and teaches students age 6 to 99. He strives to find fun and engaging ways to incorporate music theory into his lessons.

After graduating with a Bachelors of Music in Classical Guitar and Piano, Dan taught music in a Bay Area high school. He has performed with the Santa Rosa Symphony and has won multiple grants and awards for his creative projects. Dan has been certified as an Audio Engineer and holds B.A. degrees in Psychology and Theology. His musical influences include James Taylor, Stevie Nicks, Bob Dylan, George Harrison, Frederic Chopin and Claude Debussy.

Dan is available to teach Monday through Saturday and offers his first lesson free.
