Dr. Leslie Ann Leytham

Voice

I worked my way through college as a gondolier at The Venetian Hotel and as an actor in the “Star Trek Experience”.

Each lesson is designed to help the student grow through technical study and performance coaching. You will be guided through the process of getting to know your own instrument without imitating other singers out there. Your voice is as individual and identifiable as your fingerprint, let's find it! My job is to get you to trust in your abilities and to express yourself to the fullest. Dr. Leytham has been teaching voice for over 10 years, and her students have been accepted into competitive collegiate and graduate-level programs throughout the country. Dr. Leytham also commissions and performs contemporary narrative vocal works, not only as a singer and actor, but as designer, director and writer. She has been a featured artist in numerous ensembles, operas, and symphonies, and even installation performances at NOWY Teatr (Warsaw), Space4Art (SD), and the Mengi (Reykjavik). Dr. Leytham has a D.M.A in contemporary music performance (UCSD 2015), M.M. in vocal performance (The Boston Conservatory 2007), and a B.M. in vocal performance (UNLV 2005).
